

Figure 2. The early stages of Aurelia aurita polyp strobilation (ruffling [A], elongation [B] and budding [C]) observed under a dissection microscope at 2x magnification, and the later stages of strobilation (transverse segmentation [D] and stacking [E]) drawn for reference.